On a sunny morning, a beautiful princess named Rubidium went for a walk in her royal garden. The flowers were blooming, and butterflies danced in the air.

Her eyes were drawn to a dark forest at the edge of the garden. Driven by curiosity, she decided to enter the forest.

Rubidium explored the dark forest and found a scary, dark cave. She hesitated. She wanted to go back, but her curiosity made her enter the cave.

The cave was dark and cold. She could barely see anything inside. The deeper she went, the darker it became, and a strange feeling of fear grew in her heart.

As she went deeper, she was surprised to see something glittering on the ground. “Wow! So many gold coins!” she exclaimed in amazement. She decided to collect some and bring them home.

While Rubidium was busy collecting the coins, a scary creature suddenly appeared. It was Medusa. Medusa shouted, “Well, well! Who dares to take my gold coins?”

Rubidium froze in fear. “I... I didn’t know these were yours!” she stammered.

Medusa was furious. Before Rubidium could escape, Medusa's eyes glowed brightly. In an instant, Rubidium turned into a stone.

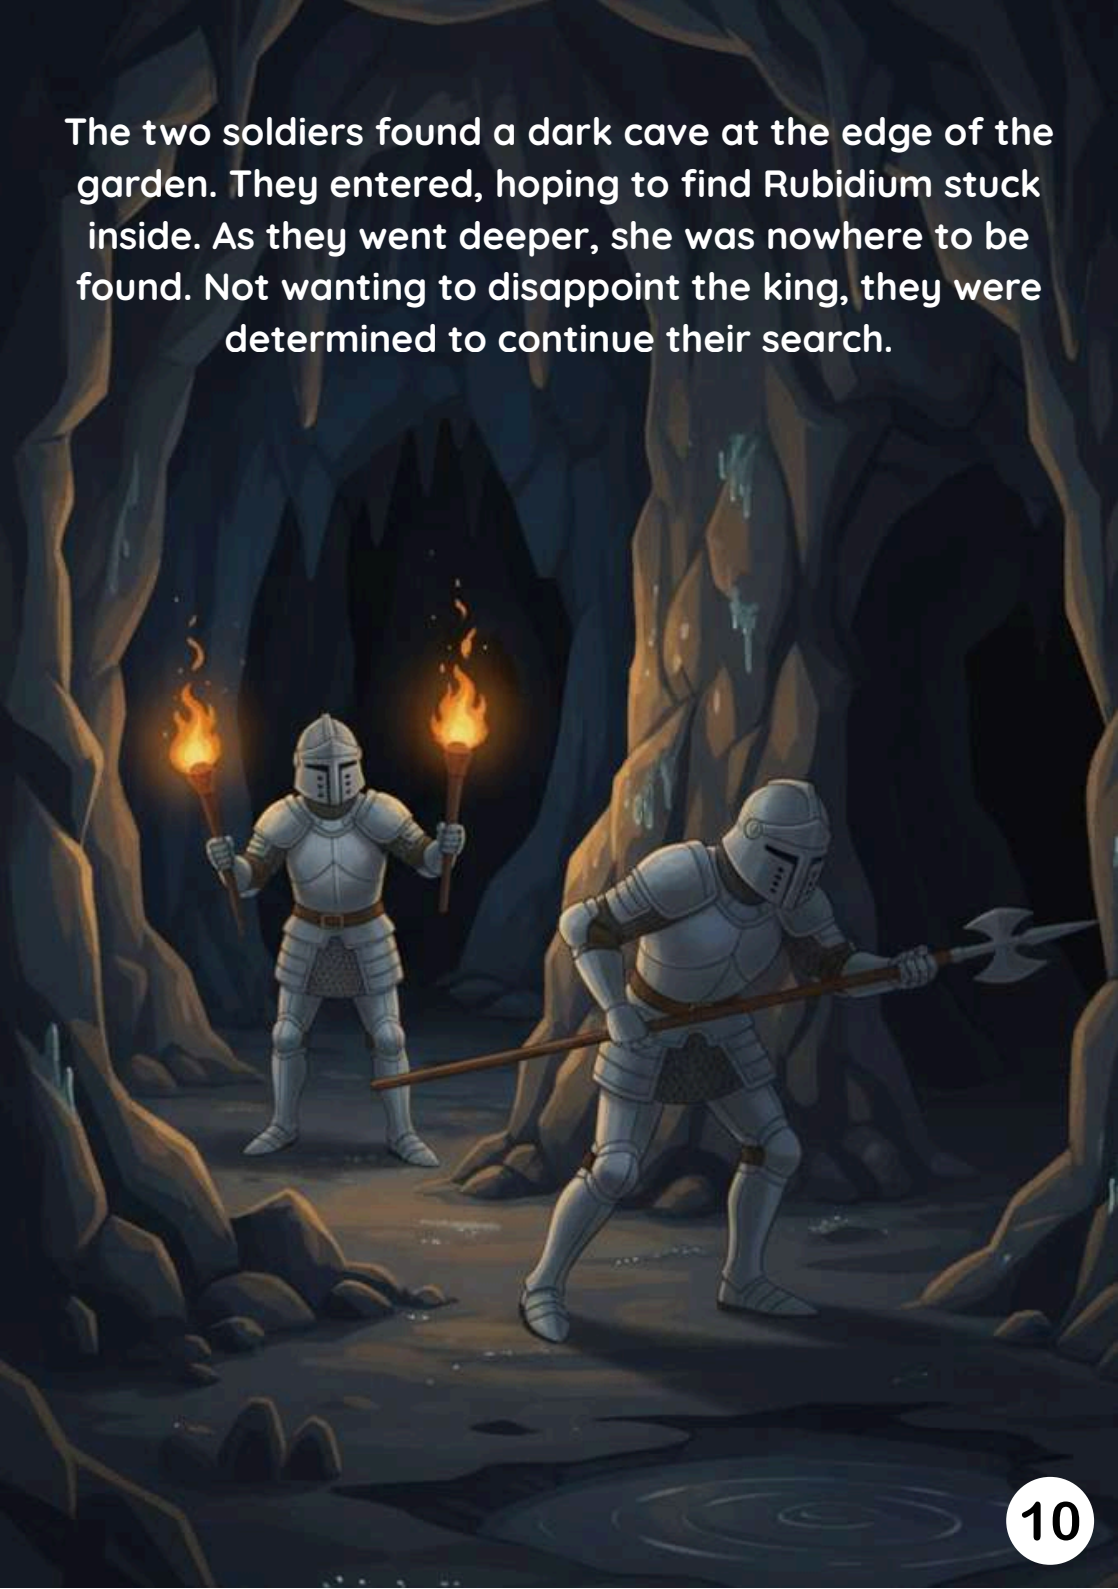

The next morning, the king realized that his daughter was missing. He was very worried. He remembered the death of his wife and didn't want the same thing to happen to his beloved daughter.

The king's face grew serious. He realized he wouldn't find his daughter by just sitting on his throne. Not wanting to risk her life, he immediately commanded his soldiers to search for her.

The two soldiers found a dark cave at the edge of the garden. They entered, hoping to find Rubidium stuck inside. As they went deeper, she was nowhere to be found. Not wanting to disappoint the king, they were determined to continue their search.

They finally found Rubidium, but she looked different. They were shocked to see her turned to stone. For a moment, they just stared, then began to think. They wanted to bring her back to the castle, but the stone covering her was too heavy.

Luckily, one of the soldiers had brought an antidote. They used it on Rubidium, and she slowly turned back into a human.

In an instant, Rubidium turned back into a human. Not wanting to waste any more time, the soldiers immediately brought her back to the castle.

The princess and the soldiers returned to the castle safely. The king hugged his daughter tightly, overjoyed to see her again.

From that day on, the princess learned to be more careful and promised never to go to the forest alone again.
